
SEAMS Project Uganda - Sewing Education and Multi Skills

When I met with these nomadic cattle herders in a dry wadi bed, I spoke to them about POSHU Projects, saying that I was not here to fix big problems for them, but perhaps if we worked together then in some small way we could begin to bring improvements to their community. I looked up and saw some of the men were crying. One of them said "You cannot know what you have said, but it is just the right message we needed to hear. Yes, we are ready to work with you." That was 2017. In 2023, they have indeed changed their community through women's sewing and literacy classes. They have hope for their children.
